Art loved being outside, doing projects around the house, travel and really anything as long as 'Kate' was there by his side.

He is known for lending a hand to anyone who needed it, his humor, playing piano and cheering on the New York Giants. He'll also be remembered for his silly voices to make kids laugh and his distinct whistle that always got the attention of his kids.

He valued humor. He emphasized effort over results. He treasured family. He will be missed deeply.
