“ My Mom and JoAnne were cousins. Jane Newsham Fidler is my mother. There are paintings that JoAnne did that still hang on the walls of my childhood home in Wahoo Nebraska. My Dad is is 98 and brother Paul lives with him. I remember Abbie and George and all.

“ I just saw this online. I took lessons from your mom many years ago. She was such an inspiration and a joy to be around. I loved your mom and lost touch with her after we moved. I still have the art bin that your dad painted my name on and carry it with me to watercolor class. Loved them both. May they both rest in peace.

“ JoAnne was my friend and a wonderful friend she was. One never lacked for interesting conversation in her company. She read voraciously and shared her thoughts about books, politics, art, gardening and cooking with equal relish. She was a devoted mother and repeatedly told me that she found that role very enjoyable and fulfilling. I am fortunate to have her paintings as a daily reminder of a beloved friend. I will miss our phone and in person visits. Her move to Peoria was a perfect place to spend her last years. Julie and Lynn made those years enjoyable and enabled her to live out her life in her own home. She will be missed. Jean Roach

“ JoAnne was a very nice person and a joy to be with. She certainly has been an inspiration to the neighborhood to keep adding beauty in flowers and gardens, even as we are in our 90's!! Our sincere condolences to Julie and Lynn and the rest of her family. Jeanne and Peter Barclay, High Point neighborhood.

“ JoAnne was an amazing artist who captured everyday moments with passion and sensitivity. For decades she documented her life—some may have thought mundane, but in her world, she chose to cherish a bus ride in Chicago to laundry day. Her memories became our memories. In her latter years, she slowed down in exhibiting her work—though she had a solo exhibition at the Peoria Art Guild a few years ago, and most recently she was awarded Best Of Show at the Members Exhibition at the Art Guild. Her reflections of a life well lived are forever documented in her artwork—a legacy most noteworthy. john and Jeff Heintzman
