“ Trisha and I were roommates and when we first started talking we had so much in common. Not a nite would go by where we didn't share a story and have so many laughs. Our journey continued for a couple of years then it came to and end.our lives went to different directions and she moved on to start her dream of photography and took some of the most beautiful photos and shared them with us all.Her ❤️ smile and laugh was so infectious and she had the heart full of ❤️ love. She was a one of a kind girl who touched the life of anyone she ever came across. She loved her son whom she talked about all the time. I remember when she got her kitty, she said ; this kitty was a life saver to her, it gave her support and love ❤️ when she needed it. Trisha your gone to soon and heaven received a beautiful angel 😇. May you fly high, be happy, and continue to share all the love you gave to everyone ❤️ you ever met. Love you sister 🥺💕 R.I.H.

“ Trish meant so much to me, I can honestly say she had been about my only true friend she was loyal until the end even when I had failed to be hers. We shared so many great memories bittersweet since we had become friends while incarcerated in 2018, not many can say take their friendship outside of those gates, but let me tell you when God puts people in your life. They're there whether you plan it or not. Trish has taught me so much many of her crazed useless knowledge that I have come to become fond of now 😂 she opened my eyes to different perspectives in life I'm not just saying this because she's gone. I'm saying this because even though she had flaws (just like each and one of us) The Trish I came to know was free spirited and had no fear in her heart she loved carelessly a lil too giving but that was only the love of god she had in her heart ❤️ because of her I got to experience what having a solid soul sister is she showed me unconditional love even when she didnt have enough for herself , my friend the one that at 3am picked me up when i was stranded i can just keep going on and on about her regardless how people chose to view her she was the same person that would give u the shirt off her back and then go find a way to go get 3 more ☐ I admired her drive hope she helps me with mine now . May the lord keep her happy up there I know she's no longer suffering and at peace \nI love you sis you will forever be with me “ Trisha's family, I am so sorry about Trisha. She is my daughters sister. I feel such a void because she is gone. Kristen and Trisha use to laugh because Trisha would come to me. She always said \"thanks for being there for me and being straight with me - I love you for that\" I would love to talk to her again, I loved her too. I am sorry for everyone's loss, she will be missed.
